"YANKEE PRINCE" NEXT ATTRACTION AT THE COLUMBIA

Tom Lewis Plays Leading Role in Cohan's Musical Comedy.

Tom Lewis, with a supporting company of fifty singing and dancing comedians in George M. Cohan's musical comedy "The Yankee Prince," will open week's engagement at the Columbia Theater Monday evening. Mr. Lewis, famous the country over as the originator and best exponent of many familiar slang phrases, such as "Gee, but you have a mean disposition," and miliar slang phrases, such as "Gee, but you have a mean disposition," and "Twenty-three," both of which, with many others, he used to the enjoyment of thousands of theatergoers, has a role in "The Yankee Prince" which is conceded by many critics to be better than his famous role of The Unknown, in "Little Johnnie Jones."

"The Yankee Prince" deals with the international marriage question, and in writing it Mr. Cohan intended to lampoon the efforts of American title hunters, who seek to gain social prominence by means of marrying their daughters to titled foreigners.

As Steve Daly, the Chicago prize-fight promoter, Mr. Lewis has one of his extremely funny parts, always appearing with his usual unsteady walk and the uncommon fault of walking off with some one's hat. Finding himself in London with a letter of introduction to the King of England, from John L. Sullivan, he proceeds to deliver the letter, and in doing so causes all kinds of trouble to the guards and attendants. Incidentally he meets Percy Springer, a young Pittsburgh millionaire, who is endeavoring to elope with Evelyn Fielding, whose father is the social-seeking American. Springer, known in London as "The Yankee Prince," enlists the aid of Daly to put a stop to the marriage of his sweetheart to the Earl of Weymouth. Incidental to the piece are many songs and dances of the Cohanesque type. The usual Thursday and Saturday matinees will be given.

Chase's next week will be the scene of the noteworthy premier production, in this city, immediately rollowing its immense New York success, Gus Edwards' Kabaret Kids, in an exhilarating act entitled "A Kabaret in Kidland," with Eddie Cantor and Hattle Knettel leading a "kompany of twenty klever and komic kids," in a maze of merry dances, catchy songs, and lively klever and komic kids," in a maze of merry dances, catchy songs, and lively ensembles. The scenery and costumes are from celebrated New York studios. The extra added attraction will be furnished by Eva Taylor and her associate fafceurs in their sketch, "Just Married," which deals with complicatioons arising from the effort of four newly-weds to keep the world and each other from knowing their marital status.

The New York Winter Garden features, Lee Perry and George White, "The Smiling Singers of Smiling Songs," will offer a number. A merry war of words will be started by James Deviln and Mae Elwood in "The Girl From Yonkers," but the outcome in which the rural maid discomfits the city chap is happily applauded by the audience. Kate Watson, "A Breeze From the West," will have quaint songs and stories which have the true ring. The Michael Richardini troupe, from Europe, will present their handbalancing feats. Louis M. Granat, the whistler, who was an added feature with Sousa's Band several years ago; the Animated Weekly, and the pipe-organ recitals will be last, but not least.

Citizens' Association Proposes to Endeavor to Have Capital Traction Company Carry Service into Suburb In Order to Improve Conditions.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU. ANACOSTIA, D. C., SEPT, 12. The Anacostia Citizens' Association proposes the extension of the line of the Capital Traction Company to this suburb as a remedy for what the association represents as the inadequate street car service now in effect. The route for the proposed extension will be determined by a committee from the association. This committee will first call upon the maangers of the Capital Traction Company and explain to them the advantages that would follow from the extension of their line to Anacostia, The citizens will be satisfied with the Anacostia bridge route or one over the Pennsylvania avenue bridge at Twining Pennsylvania avenue bridge at Twining City and the utilization of Minnesota avenue in making the loop.

Decision to appeal to the Capital Traction Company to assist in solving Anacostia's street car problem came after a debate at the meeting of the citizens' association last evening. As members told of the service in effect on the line of the Washington Railway and Electric Company, describing headway between the cars of from fourteen to twenty-nine minutes, bitter criticism was made of the present system.

In the opinion of President Charles R. Burr, Maurice Otterback, William J. Latimer, and James J. Glennan, as expressed in the discussion, the service is the worst given in years. It was held to be seriously detrimental to Anacostia to permit the present conditions to continue. On motion of Mr. Otterback, a committee of ten to carry forward plans for the extension of the road of the Capital Traction Company will be named after conference with John F. Earnshaw, the chairman of the railroad committee.

Rivalry May Hurt.

How rivalry between two towns-Ana-How rivalry between two towns—Anacostia and Congress Heights—to obtain an all-night street car service may result in eliminating the chances of either one for such service was the substance of a report by President Charles R. Burr. The president told of the efforts for an all-night car service for Anacostia, Business people have written to the District Railway Commission, petitions have been forwarded, and a representative of the commission has been in Anacostia investigating. Now, continued President Burr, the people in Congress Heights come forward and request an all-night service. Owing to the aversion of the District Railway Commission to order an all-night service for the suburbs, it is feared, said Mr. Burr, that the demand of the Congress Heights residents will interfere with the prospects that Anacostia will be granted the service. Therefore, he pointed out, all efforts will be directed now toward making the governing body in the situation view Anacostia not as a suburb, but as a part of the city. He declared the chances are good that the service will be ordered for this town. The chances for the Congress Heights people in the same direction are not good, it was thought.

The question of who is going to care for Anacostia's town flag and its big staff came up again, and it was explained how the association had voted some time ago to transfer this duty to John A. Logan Post, No. 13, G. A. R. Subsequent developments were that Logan Post, through Commander A. B. Frisble, wrôte to the association, stating that no funds are available for the purpose. The question arose then as to the disposition to be made of the town flag and the pole, which stand in Logan Park.

The fill on the southern side of the Anacostia bridge has settled entirely, it was said, and there is no reason why the work cannot be done, as the law provides for its consummation when it is held by the Commissioners that the ground is in proper condition.

How the express companies doing business in the city have changed their attitude toward Anacostia, having begun a system of house to house collection and delivery, following the fight made by the Citizens' Association for this service before the Interstate Commerce Commission, was described by President Burr. The citizens heard the report with evidences of extreme gratification. It was stated that the system is now in force, having been made effective last Monday.

CUMMINS TO STUDY TRUSTS IN EUROPE AFTER ELECTION Congressman Patten

Will Make Fight to Help Roosevelt Carry Iowa In November.

Finally the vexations matter was placed with President Burr for such action as he deems wise.

That Logan Park is about to be improved on an extensive scale after plans prepared by Col. W. C. Langfitt, engineer officer in charge of buildings and grounds, was the pleasing news announced by Maurice Otterback. The plans show an artistic and handsome scheme of beautification, Mr. Otterback said. Senator Cummins of Iowa, one of the eading members of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, will go to Europe after the election to study the trust question.

The reading of the report of the executive committee committed the association to arge for inclusion by the Commissioners in their forthcoming budget for the District to Congress the following items of local interest: The paving and widening of Nichols avenue; the erection of arc lights therein; the placing underground of the trolley wires of the Washington Railway and Electric Company between the new bridge and Talburtt street, to be undertaken in connection with the improving of the highway. The visit of Senator Cummins will be of importance in view of the fact that he initiated the investigation which is still pending before the committee into the question of further legislation to control the trusts and corporations.

A report recently went the rounds that Senator Cummins would go to Europe estensibly to study the trust question, but really to evade the troubles of the campaign prior to the election.

Senator Cummins, however, has let it
